Fishbowl Solutions' Related Content for the Stellent Content Server

Fishbowl Solutions, an internationally recognized Stellent partner, has been implementing the full Stellent solutions since 1999. Our organization is almost exclusively focused and committed to delivering advanced Stellent solutions across many industries ranging from Engineering to Government to Banking.

From our years of experience, coupled with our experience with complex documentation environments, we found a challenge with the current Stellent solution is that there is no concept of many-to-many relationships common in databases.

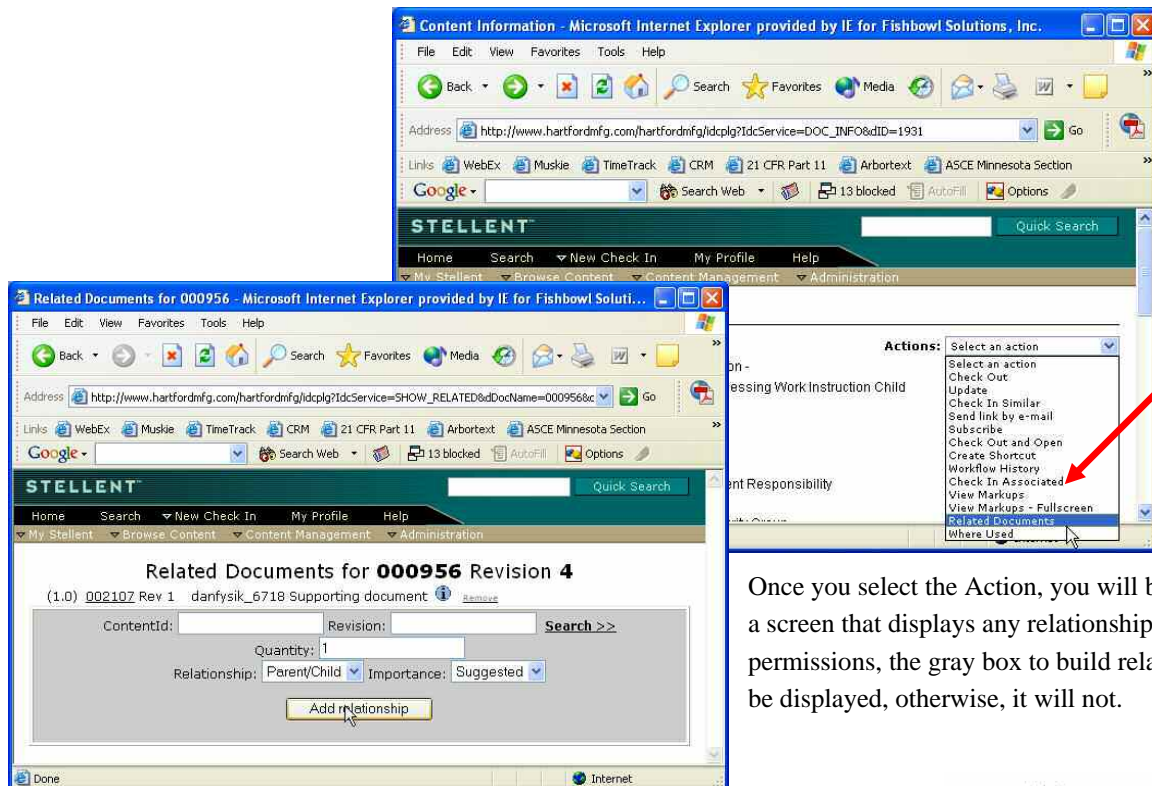

Fishbowl Solutions has built a solution to address this called our Related Content Component.

The Related Content Component is a standard component that is installed through the normal Stellent tools – namely the Component Wizard or the Install application via the web.

Once it is installed, “Related Documents” and “Where Used” Actions are added to the Actions toolbar. See Figure.

Features

- Allows for many to many relationships within the Stellent Content Server
- Utilizes standard functions so you can incorporate it into your other applications.

Once you select the Action, you will be presented with a screen that displays any relationships. If you have permissions, the gray box to build relationships will be displayed, otherwise, it will not.
